CS70

A discreet and stylish headset for busy executives

Every time you miss a call, you leave yourself twice as much work to do – retrieving a message, looking up a number, returning the call, and possibly finding that the moment has passed.

Plantronics' CS70 wireless headset is so comfortable and discreet that you may forget you're wearing it – until that crucial call comes through, and you're ready to respond instantly. It's just a better way to do business.

The CS70 has a maximum 100 metres' range (about 50 metres in a typical office), so you can stretch your legs, attend a meeting, touch base with a colleague, grab a coffee, and still be confident that your team or customers will get straight through to you. The sound-quality is superb, the talk- and standby-time excellent. You set the volume, and can set it to mute if you need to confer.

This is a great opportunity for busy executives and managers to maximise their productivity whilst in the office.
